Since 1981, all TROX filters for the European markets have been manufactured exclusively in Germany. Filters are an essential component of the TROX product portfolio as they are used in X-CUBE air handling units as well as in all other parts of ventilation and air conditioning systems.

In a move to strengthen its German production facilities, TROX intends to concentrate more on energy-efficient filters and high-efficiency particulate filters (HEPA/ULPA). These products are primarily used in highly sensitive areas with very stringent hygiene requirements, such as in the pharmaceutical and food industries or in health care. In line with this new approach, TROX will increase its investments in research and development as well as in product and system enhancements.

'Our customers appreciate the very high quality of our products as much as our filter know-how, i.e. the combination of engineering quality in our filter units and our expertise in filter elements. This makes us the ideal partner whenever filter solutions have to meet demanding hygiene requirements', explains Udo Jung, CEO of TROX GmbH, the new approach. TROX will of course continue to offer its existing wide spectrum of filter elements and filter units.
